

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention provides a proteome analysis method including grouping a proteome into membrane proteins and compounds capable of interacting with the membrane proteins, while retaining their native structure and function, and analyzing both the membrane proteins and the compounds based on biological affinity, and devices therefor.

10038918.010302